

Swiss Household Energy Demand Survey (SHEDS), Wave 2019

Questionnaire and codes

Last update: 01.07.2019

Preliminary notes

This document contains all questions and codes for wave 2019 of the Swiss Household Energy Demand Survey (SHEDS). The related datasets are named SHEDS2019.xyz.

Conventions:

- Variable names are written in bold.
- For questions coded in several variables, a suffix _n ($n = 1, 2, \dots, N$) is appended to differentiate items. Suffixes are indicated in brackets [].
- Response codes are indicated in parentheses ().
- In questions where a single answer is possible, choices appear with a circle “O”.
- In questions where multiple answers are possible, choices appear with a square “□”.
- Text shaded in grey provides additional indications that were not shown to the respondents.
- Negative values indicate special types of missing values. In particular:
 - -1 = does not know (labelled dnk)
 - -2 = does not apply (labelled dna): the question is irrelevant, and hence not displayed to the respondent
- Questions that have marginally changed over the years are appended with a final letter to emphasize the change and prevent any unnoticed mistake when merging different waves. For example, accom2 in 2016 has been changed to accom2a since 2017 because house (accom2 = 1) has been split to detached house (accom2a = 5), semi-detached house (accom2a = 6) and terraced house (accom2a = 7). In the same spirit, codes of the old variable that were changed (e.g., 1 in accom2) are not reused in the new variable.
- The questions are listed in the same order they appear for the respondents during the survey. Numbering of questions is thus not always in a natural order.
- Returning respondents, who already answered previous waves of SHEDS are identified by the variable old:
 - 0 = fresh respondent, who never answered SHEDS before current wave
 - 1 = 2016 only
 - 2 = 2017 only
 - 3 = 2018 only
 - 4 = 2016 + 2017
 - 5 = 2016 + 2018
 - 6 = 2017 + 2018
 - 7 = 2016 + 2017 + 2018

- Five different choice experiments were conducted on returning respondents. Each respondent was assigned a single choice experiment, as indicated by the variable group_ce:
 1. HCK (responsible group: UniSG)
 2. P2P (responsible group: UniGe)
 3. DM (responsible group: ETH)
 4. TAX (responsible group: UniNe)
 5. MDL (responsible group: UniBas)The data relative to the choice experiments are excluded from the main database and provided in secondary databases, as indicated at the beginning of each dedicated section. The link between the main database and the secondary databases can be done using the respondents' id.
- The original questionnaire in English, German and French, with all codes and display logic extracted directly from Qualtrics is available in document SHEDS2019_OriginalQuestionnaireFromQualtrics_EN+FR+DE.docx. The corresponding survey flow is available in SHEDS2019_SurveyFlow.docx. Note that some codes displayed in these technical documents may differ from those in the datasets released since some variables have been transformed. In the event of any divergence, the present document shall prevail.
- The respondents who answered the questionnaire completely are identified by variable finished. Note that only respondents with finished = 1 are considered by Intervista in the quotas. The characteristics of the incomplete respondents were nevertheless provided by Intervista in 2019. The incomplete answers are therefore provided (in datasets named SHEDS2019_incomplete.xyz), but should be used with caution.

Master data (from Intervista)

These variables are available for respondents who were not screened out (screen ≠ 3)

age	Respondent's age (in years, Intervista) Because the evolution of age is not always consistent across waves, one might want to correct age and enforce consistency. This seems particularly important for longitudinal analyses. To this end, variable age_corr has been created as follows: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> For respondents with more than two waves: check if two observations are consistent and adapt the other observations accordingly (if more than 3 waves, there might be several pairs of consistent observations; in such cases, the most recent pair is considered as being correct) For respondents with two waves only or for respondents with more than two waves but rule 1 does not apply: consider the most recent observation as being correct and adapt the other observations accordingly

HCK (choice experiment 1)

Data relative to choice experiment HCK are in secondary databases SHEDS2019_HCK. Link with main database through id.

hck_1_intro1

In the following part of the survey, we will focus on the topic of demand-side flexibility of electricity. The cost of electricity supply is strongly influenced by customers' consumption during peak periods when a lot of consumers are using electricity at the same time and supply of this energy might fall short of this demand.

In order to estimate the savings-potential, in the following section we will ask you about:

- your preferences for different electricity tariffs aiming to reduce the demand during peak periods
- your experience with such tariffs, and your risk attitudes

hck_1_intro2

When you answer the following questions, please imagine, that your old electricity tariff was no longer available, so that you would need to choose between the new electricity tariffs.

Under these new tariffs, you will be asked to switch off your large appliances during a peak period of 4 hours. There will be no more than one peak period per day.

You will be warned at least 1 hour ahead (usually 24h hours ahead) of peak periods through the information channel that you prefer, i.e. a text message, email, automated phone call or an in-home display.

hck_1_intro3

On the next 6 pages we will ask you to choose between electricity tariffs that differ with regard to the following 5 aspects (when you hover over the words in italic you will receive additional information).

1) Peak Frequency

You will be asked to reduce your demand during 5, 50, or 100 peak periods per year.

2) Additional cost during peak periods

For the electricity you consume during peak periods, you pay a peak price of CHF 1 per kWh, CHF 5 per kWh or between CHF 1 and CHF 5 per kWh (depending on the market price).

3) Saving Target

The saving target specifies how many of your large appliances you can use simultaneously during peak periods. Large appliances are: washing-machine, tumble-drier, dish-washer, electric cooking-stove, electric vehicle, electric heating, and in-home battery. The following three targets exist:

- Up to 2 large appliances.
- Up to 1 large appliance.
- No large appliances.

4) Automatic Action

To help you save electricity and avoid high cost during peak periods, the following options of automatic actions will be offered:

- None
- Limit total demand: If you overstep the saving target you will be disconnected 10 minutes after receiving a warning until you have switched off a sufficient number of appliances to reach the savings target.
- Limit specific appliances: After receiving a warning your appliances will be switched off in the order you specified until you reach the saving target.

5) Monthly base fee

For the electricity you consume during normal periods, you pay a base fee of CHF 40 per month, CHF 60 per month or CHF 80 per month.

"Electricity community in your neighborhood"

Please imagine you created a community with your neighbors in order to provide each other with electricity. When you have a lot of electricity, you can sell it to your neighbors and when you need electricity you can receive it from them. You own a photovoltaic system that generates electricity from sun power. dm_introduction

In 2015 all countries have agreed to commonly mitigate climate change. To do so the amount of CO2 emissions caused by the use of fossil fuel energy resources has to be reduced drastically.

Switzerland decided to cut emissions by 50% until 2030 compared to the emission level in 1990. The main areas where a lot of CO2 emissions arise are mobility (i.e. cars, airplanes etc.), buildings (i.e. heating and cooling), agriculture and industrial production. In the following part of the survey we focus on buildings.

This information will be used to inform Swiss energy policy. It is, thus, in your interest to answer the questions as truthfully as possible.

TAX (choice experiment 4)

This choice experiment is taken by respondents with group_ce = 4.

Data relative to choice experiment TAX are in secondary database SHEDS2019_TAX. Link with main database through id.

tax_intro1

In this part of the survey, we will ask you questions regarding the Swiss CO2 levy and your opinion about it.

tax_intro2

The Swiss CO2 levy can be summarized in six points:

- The CO2 levy is one of Switzerland's main instruments to lower its greenhouse gas emissions: it raises the price of fossil fuels, which encourages households and firms to consume less of them and to use more ecological energy sources instead.
- In 2019, its rate is CHF 96 per ton of CO2 (CHF 25.45 per 100l of heating oil or 100kg of natural gas).
- Its rate is increased when CO2 reduction targets are not met, with a legal maximum of CHF 120 per tCO2.
- It is only applied on thermal and process fossil fuels, not on motor fuels such as gasoline and diesel. Households are therefore mainly taxed through their heating consumption.
- Two thirds of the proceeds it generates are redistributed to the population and firms. All Swiss residents benefit from the redistribution through a lump-sum rebate on their health insurance bills. In 2019, this rebate is approx. CHF 64 per person.
- The remaining third is used to finance the Buildings Program of the Confederation. It is a subsidy program aiming at improving the energy efficiency of existing buildings in Switzerland.

MDL (choice experiment 5)

This choice experiment is taken by respondents with group_ce = 5.

Data relative to choice experiment MDL are in secondary database SHEDS2019_MDL. Link with main database through id.

mdl_intro1

In this part of the survey, we want to learn more about your housing preferences. Imagine you relocate. You are looking for a new home and expect to live there for a longer period of time (at least five years).

mdl_intro2

Now, imagine you have found several housing options that are comparable to your current home, but they vary in the following three characteristics:

- Size of the living space
- Energy efficiency of the home
- Distance to places you frequent on normal weekdays (e.g. work, school, family commitments)

Each of these characteristics has consequences for the price of your new home; and they have consequences for your energy consumption.

MDL_intro3_sn

Many people in Switzerland live in a highly energy-efficient home with a living space that is appropriately sized for the number of inhabitants.

In addition, many people live close to their most frequently visited places, thus ensuring further energy savings through short travel distances.

Overall, these choices ensure that many Swiss people live in a home that contributes to a low overall energy consumption.

Thank you for caring about your energy consumption and the environment when choosing your new home and its location!

Since 2008, heating oil and natural gas are subject to CO₂ tax, currently about 25 CHF per 100 liters (oil) or 100 kg (gas). Most of the revenues are redistributed to the Swiss population on their individual health insurance bills. All households benefit from the proceeds of the CO₂ tax paid by oil/gas consumers. Please give us your best estimate of your household's cost and benefit of CO₂ tax in 2019.

Over the year, each person in your household will...
